

I created a dashboard that displays three key price points for each item: the current price, the best available price across different stores, and the previous price. This setup allows users to easily track price changes over time and identify which store offers the best deal at any given moment. By including these details, the dashboard helps users make more informed purchasing decisions and highlights potential savings in a simple, visual format.

